We all have at least one moment in our lives in which to make a very important decision, a move that may change our destiny, whose end we can never know at the beginning of the journey. But it is a journey that each of us must take, if we are to truly experience life. It takes courage, for we must be willing to take the consequences of those decisions. We can't hide from life. It will find us no matter how small, how seemingly removed and secure the world in which we live.

PICNIC speaks to that small voice within each of us that wants to escape our loneliness, our isolation, to soar into a new world of experience and change, to leave the known, the ordinary, the routine, for the unknown, the dream, the new world.

Safe journey, voyager!
